Subscribers,

I'm pleased to share that I'll again be presenting three free online workshops this March, hosted by the University of Michigan's Social Science Data Analysis Network. You can register and learn more at this link!

The workshops will all take place from 11am-2pm Eastern time (US), and cover the following topics:

- Thursday, March 10: Analyzing 2020 Census data with R and tidycensus
- Friday, March 18: Making maps of 2020 Census data with R
- Friday, March 25: Using the new 2016-2020 American Community Survey estimates in R

I hope to see you there!

If you need specialized consulting assistance with any of these Census data topics or have broader questions about R / spatial data science, Walker Data is currently scheduling for Q2 2022. Please don't hesitate to reach out!
